Interpreting NCDOT Right of Way Plans Dale Burton, PE, PLS, NC Department of Transportation

Summary Description:

The following list of concerns were expressed by the NC Board of Examiners for Engineers and Surveyors (NCBEES) regarding NCDOT Highway and Secondary Road plans:

1. Lack of public availability of plans for NCDOT land acquisition.
2. Lack of metadata on plans, including coordinate system, control points set, and closures.
3. Complexity of plans (readability, alignments).
4. Lack of consistency in locating, documenting, and representing property boundaries.
5. Complexity of right of way deeds, based on station/offset.
6. Chain of responsible charge for the PLS doing survey/mapping work.
7. Proper monumentation of the right of way

As a result, and to address the list of concerns, the NCDOT has developed a process in which a separate set of Right of Way plans will be developed for all future projects. The goal of the separate set of plans will enhance our overall design plan set and make the requested information related to project survey control and property information easier to view and understand.
